AvConnect Expands Maintenance Service Technology by Powering EvoTrack

DENVER, CO - AvConnect, an AvFusion, Inc. company, today announced a significant brand expansion, powering the technology behind top tier maintenance management provider Evolution Aviators, and offering Corvalis owners the latest in maintenance tracking technology.

AvConnect, together with Evolution Aviators, has launched EvoTrack, a fully customized version of AvConnect's comprehensive online aircraft and pilot management system, designed for Evolution's customers.

Evolution Aviators, based in Seattle, WA, is a turn-key high performance aircraft and flight services group dedicated to improving all aspects of the ownership experience from flight training and acquisition to comprehensive aircraft maintenance management.

Erik Murrey, Chief Executive Officer of AvFusion, Inc. stated, "AvConnect looks for opportunities to partner with aviation companies that are at the highest level of progressive and personal service and support. By powering EvoTrack, we are partnering with Evolution to deliver an invaluable tool to their customers. Evolution and an owner operator now have instant visibility into their aircraft status, from recent flights to potential or unexpected issues, to revolving maintenance schedules."

Dion Gotti, President of Evolution Aviators, also stated, "With the technology of AvConnect and the expertise of the Evolution team, EvoTrack brings a level of unparalleled service to our customers. They not only have the confidence of knowing their aircraft is managed by the highest skilled professionals, but they also now have a complete online system—specific to them as our customer—they can use to jointly track every aircraft detail, plus manage their entire logbook, right from their mobile phone."

AvConnect also provides EvoTrack with a fleet dashboard feature showing new ADs and Service Bulletins, open squawks, and upcoming maintenance due for their entire aircraft fleet. Erik Murrey added, "By customizing our brand to fit the specific needs of Evolution, their team now has the ability to maximize time and efficiency by being able to view the status of their entire customer base and track maintenance across the board."

AvConnect plans to further develop its partnership with Evolution Aviators and power EvoTrack with the most advanced technology in general aviation.

About AvConnect

AvConnect delivers the most comprehensive online management system available for the general aviation industry—enabling pilots, owner operators, service centers and manufacturers to connect, communicate, and proactively manage their aircraft with a central online solution. Customers use one online account, which maintains every flight, pilot and aircraft record; from logbooks and expenses to complete maintenance history / tracking to automated service center communication. AvConnect is an AvFusion, Inc. company, a privately held corporation based in Denver, Colorado.

About Evolution Aviators

Evolution Aviators brings a wealth of experience in high performance piston and light jet platforms to maintenance facilities, fleets and the owner operator. Their intimate knowledge of these aircraft comes from a background working with manufacturers such as Columbia Aircraft, Cessna and Eclipse Aviation.
